resolution offered by, whereas the agitation by Congress of the question of changing the tax imposed by existing law upon distilled spirits would be very injurious to all manufacturers of distilled spirits in the United States, and would tend temporarily to paralyze in a great degree the trade and commerce based upon it; and whereas a wise and just policy on the part of the Government requires that the interests of those engaged in the industry and trade mentioned should not be unnecessarily injured or jeopardized by frequent changes in the rate of tax they are compelled to pay upon distilled spirits: therefore, that the agitation by Congress of the question of reducing the internal-revenue tax imposed by law upon distilled spirits is not demanded by any present public exigency, and, in view of the great injury which would necessarily result therefrom to the large number of our citizens who are engaged in manufacturing and dealing in said articles, is inexpedient. referred to the House Calendar 2831 resolution offered by, whereas it appears by the memorial of Eli Ayres, as referred by this House to the Committee on the Judiciary, that he, the said Ayres, purchased, paid for, and took deeds of certain lands reserved to and located in the name of certain Chickasaw Indians as provided and authorized by the treaty between the United States and the Chickasaw Indians concluded May 21, 1834, and that the said lands so located were legally vested in the said grantors with the right to sell the same; and whereas it further appears that the said deeds were not approved by the President of the United States as required by said treaty, and that the lands contained therein have since been located by other claimants or sold and patented to other parties by the United States States, and the proceeds thereof mixed with and credited to the trust fund provided by said treaty for the Chickasaw Nation of Indians; and whereas it is desirable that the titles to the said lands should be ascertained, adjusted, and quieted and determined upon as the ascertained facts may seem to require and as to right and equity may seem to belong: therefore, that the said memorial of Eli Ayres, with the accompanying papers, be referred to the Secretary of the Interior, and that he be, and he is hereby, requested, after reasonable notice to parties interested, to cause a careful examination into the facts and claims relating to the subject-matter thereof to be made and reported to this House as soon as practicable. Adopted 2005 that the Secretary of the Treasury be, and is hereby, respectfully requested to cause to be furnished to this House at his earliest convenience an account showing the following: First. The amount of United States bonds and the interest they bore, secured by the national banks and held by the Treasury as security for circulation, issued to said banks in each year, from 1863 until 1880, with the aggregate of said interest paid by the Government between said periods. Second. The amount of United States deposits held by national banks, and the amount of bonds of the United States secured by said banks and held by the Treasury to secure said deposits, with the rate of interest said bonds have borne, and the amount of interest paid thereon in each year, from 1863 until 1880, with the aggregate of said payments. Third. The amount of money paid by the United States each year, from 1863 until 1880, for salaries of officers, clerks, and employés of all kinds for and connected with national banks, and the aggregate thereof for said term. Fourth. The amount of money paid by the United States for plates, engraving, paper, printing, signing, and transmitting circulation to national banks each year, from 1863 until 1880, and the aggregate of said payments in said term. Fifth. Any and all other payments of money made by the United States for or on account of national banks not included in the foregoing specifications, if any there be, each year, from 1863 until 1880, with the aggregate thereof. Sixth. That all of said payments so made by the United States for, on account of, or connected with national banks, during said term, be footed up, that the aggregate of all said payments may appear to the credit of the United States and to the debit of said banks. That said account also contain the following to the credit of said banks: First. The amount of all taxes paid by the national banks to the United States upon their circulation each year, from 1863 until 1880, and the aggregate thereof for all the years. Second. The amount of taxes collected from and paid by national banks upon deposits, and for stamps not required to be paid by State banks and bankers, if any there be, but not including any tax required to be paid by State banks, the same as national banks, each year, from 1863 until 1880, with the aggregate of said payments, if any were made. Third. All money paid by national banks upon their capital not invested in United States bonds, to the United States each year, from 1863 until 1880, with the aggregate thereof, not including, however, any such tax required to be paid by State banks and private bankers, as well as national banks. Fourth. That any sum or sums paid by national banks to the United States under requirements of law, not included in the foregoing specifications, be also stated, and due credit therefor be given said banks for each year, from 1863 until 1880, and the aggregate thereof. Fifth. That a balance be struck, showing the amount due the Government for money paid to and for the national banks up to 1880, or the amount due said national banks, as the case may be, and that said account be duly signed by the proper officer of the Government. Also, that said account state all the expenses incurred by the United States for the issue of legal-tender Treasury notes of the Government called greenbacks, each year, from 1862 until 1880, and the aggregate expenses during that time, and that the difference, if any, between the cost of national-bank notes and of legal-tender Treasury notes be made to appear in said account.

that any attempt to withdraw or to change the legal status or equality of any of the paper money issued by the United States, or to reopen, by legislation, currency questions that have been settled by decisions of the Supreme Court and universally adopted and approved by the people, would be injudicious and mischievous, and could only result in disturbing reviving business and in retarding returning prosperity, and could do no possible good; and this House is emphatically opposed to any legislation for any such purpose. GOODE, JOHN—Continued.
resolutions offered by—whereas on Monday, the 29th day of October, 1781, it was resolved that the United States in Congress assembled will cause to be erected at York, in Virginia, a marble column, adorned with emblems of the alliance between the United States and his most Christian majesty, and inscribed with a succinct narrative of the surrender of Earl Cornwallis to his excellency General Washington, commander-in-chief of the combined forces of America and France; to his excellency the Count de Rochambeau, commanding the auxiliary troops of his most Christian majesty in America, and his excellency the Count de Grasse, commanding in chief the naval army of France in Chesapeake; and whereas that resolution has not been carried into effect, and the pledge of the nation made nearly one hundred years ago remains yet unfulfilled; and whereas it is eminently proper that the centennial anniversary of the decisive victory achieved by Washington and the continental army, with the assistance of their French allies, at Yorktown, should be appropriately celebrated by the American people on the spot where it occurred: therefore, that a select committee of thirteen be appointed by the Speaker, whose duty it shall be to inquire into the expediency of appropriating a suitable sum to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of War in erecting at Yorktown, in Virginia, the monument referred to in the aforesaid resolution of Congress, and of making the necessary arrangements, in conjunction with the authorities of the State of Virginia, for an appropriate celebration by the American people on the 19th day of October, 1881, for the surrender of the British forces under Lord Cornwallis; and that said committee have leave to report by bill or otherwise at any time. Agreed to 22 that the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to report to this body as soon as practicable a detailed statement of all action and proceedings taken by the National Board of Health under or in connection with "an act to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to contract for the purchase or construction of a refrigerating ship for the disinfection of vessels and cargoes, and for other purposes," approved April 18, 1879, together with all action and proceedings of the board of engineer officers appointed to examine and report upon the plan submitted, with copies of all papers relating thereto, and the reasons why no contract has been made for the purchase or construction of a refrigerating ship as provided for by the said act. HARMER, ALFRED C.—Continued.
resolution offered by, whereas it is a matter of public record that soldiers' claims for pension to the number of two hundred thousand are now pending in the Pension Office and unsettled; and whereas it is asserted by the Commissioner of Pensions that under the present system many fraudulent claims have been allowed and the settlement of meritorious claims delayed; and whereas it is alleged that bounty and back pay due under existing law to soldiers who have served in the armies of the United States are due and unpaid: therefore, that a committee of seven members of this House be appointed by the Speaker whose duty it shall be to examine and inquire into the method and the manner of the payment of pensions, arrears of pensions, bounty, and back pay, and to ascertain whether any irregularities exist in the payment of the same. And the said committee shall have further power to investigate any subject of complaint that may be lodged with them concerning the payment, rejection, or suspension of pensions, bounty, and back pay; to examine witnesses, to send for persons and papers, to employ a clerk, and to report the result of said investigation to this House, with a view to the enactment of such additional legislation as may correct existing defects, and as may be deemed necessary to protect the pensioners and soldiers of the Government in their rights. Further, that the expenses of said committee shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House, upon vouchers signed by the chairman of the said committee. Adopted. 287, 288
